Game of chance played with cards

"Yablon" redirects here. For the Russian river, see

Yablon (river)

A round of red dog. Dealt two cards whose values are neither the same nor adjacent to each other, the player bets on whether the value of the third card will fall between the value of the first two.

Red dog, also known as Yablon, is a game of chance played with cards, in which two cards are dealt and a player bets on whether the rank of a third card would fall between them. While found in some land casinos, its popularity has declined, although it is featured at many online casinos.

A standard

52-card deck is used. The game may be played with anywhere from one to eight decks, with an increasing number of decks decreasing the house's edge—the house's advantage begins at 3.155% with one deck but falls to 2.751% when eight decks are used. This is in contrast with some other casino card games, such as blackjack, where a higher number of decks used will increase the house edge.

A close variant is Acey Deucey.

Red Dog [edit]

Two cards dealt with consecutive ranks are a "push", returning the player's wager.

The game only uses three cards at a time, which are ranked as in poker, with aces high. Suit is irrelevant. A wager is placed, and two cards are placed face up on the table, with three possible outcomes:

If the cards are consecutive in number (for example, a four and a five, or a jack and a queen), the hand is a push and the player's wager is returned.

(for example, a four and a five, or a jack and a queen), the hand is a push and the player's wager is returned. If the two cards are of equal value, a third card is dealt. If the third card is of the same value, then the payout for the player is 11:1, otherwise, the hand is a push.

, a third card is dealt. If the third card is of the same value, then the payout for the player is 11:1, otherwise, the hand is a push. If neither of the above is the case (for example, a three and an eight), then a spread is announced which determines the payoff (a 4-card spread, in this example), and a third card will be dealt. Before dealing the third card, the player has the option to double his bet. If the third card's value falls between the first two, the player will receive a payoff according to the spread; otherwise, the bet is lost.

Spread [edit]

The spread table is as follows:

Spread Payout 1-card 5 to 1
2-card 4 to 1 3-card 2 to 1 4- to-11-card 1 to 1

The house edge table is as follows.

Decks	House Edge	Risk 1	3.155%	2.672%	2	3.077%	2.609%	4	2.884%	2.447%	6	2.798%
			2.375%	8	2.751%	2.335%

The spread probabilities table is as follows.

Acey Deucey [edit]

Acey

Deucey,[2] also known as In-Between, Sheets, Between the Sheets or Maverick, is a simple betting card game. Two cards are dealt to a player, who then bets on whether the rank of a third card will fall between those of the first two.

Rules [edit]

the action, each player must add their ante into the pot. Two cards are then dealt face-up to one player. That player then bets from nothing to the amount that is in the pot at the time whether or not the third card will numerically fall in between the first two. If the third card falls in between the two other cards, the bettor takes the amount they bet out of the pot; if the third card falls outside of the two other cards, the bettor must add what they bet to the pot; and if the third card matches the numerical value of one of the other two cards, the bettor must add to the pot double what they bet. If two cards of the same value come up, e.g. 2,2 the bettor picks if the next card will be higher or lower and bets. If the next card is the same as the last two, i.e. a 2, the bettor must triple their bet.

Regionally specific rules [ edit ] rules and specifics of the game often vary from region to region. For example in Liaoning province, northeast China the minimum number of players is 4 and each player is required to ante before the first card is turned. Two cards are then dealt face-up to one player. That player then bets from nothing to the amount that is in the pot at the time (during the first time around the table players are only allowed to bet up to half of the pot) whether or not the third card will numerically fall in between the first two. Other regions, such as in the United States, play the game by combining two decks of cards. This adds another dynamic to the game due to the extra number of similar type cards. Beyond that, most of the other rules followed by United States players are similar to those which are observed in the Liaoning province.

all regions play if the third card falls in between the two other cards, the bettor takes the amount they bet out of the pot; if the third card falls outside of the two other cards, the bettor must add what they bet to the pot; and if the third card matches the numerical value of one of the other two cards, this is referred to as a "Post" and the bettor must add to the pot double their own initial bet. If two cards of the same value come up, e.g. 2,2 the bettor picks if the next card will be higher or lower and bets. If the next card is the same as the last two, i.e. a 2, this is considered a "Post" and the player is required to pay triple the bet for the hand.

Aces

[ edit ]

In addition to this, there is a special rule for Aces. If the first card turned is an Ace the player may choose its value as either the high Ace or the low one. Low Ace is always lower than any other card, including the deuce. If an Ace comes up as the second card turned it is always considered the high Ace. If a player "Posts" on an Ace they are required to pay four times their bet for that hand. Aces also cause an automatic loss if it is the third card turned when the first two cards are a match, e.g. 6,6. The best spread in the game is considered to be a low Ace on the left and a high Ace on the right. This is also one of the worst hands to get as you run the risk of the third card being an Ace and having to pay four times your bet for the hand.

Variations [ edit ]

A variation is to split the cards if two end cards are the same value. This requires the bettor to ante in for two hands and the dealer would draw one more card under each of the end cards. After this, the same rules apply.

Some new rules that increase payouts and betting:

Blind Pot - Bet the pot before your 2 outside cards are placed. In the case of a win, you win the pot. If you are outside of your cards you lose half the pot. If you post you have to pay the full amount of the pot.

"AutoPot" - Any A-2 played as your outside cards automatically make the player bet the full amount of the pot.

Post Bet - You can bet that your inside card will match one of your outside cards. In the case of this you win the full pot and in addition each player pays an equal percentage to match the pot. Therefore, the player that post would win 2x the pot. If the player bets the post and misses, they owe half the amount of the pot to the pot.

Satan 6s - Any player that gets 6-6-6 as their cards must pay 6x the amount of the pot to the pot.

In popular culture [ edit ]

The game show Card Sharks is based on Acey Deucey and closely resembles the rules.[citation needed] In the show, two players answer high-low survey questions, and guess whether the next card is higher or lower (with duplicates counting as wrong).

Acey-ducey is often mentioned in the book series The Corps by W.E.B. Griffin which is set in the Pacific Theater of World War II, and follows the lives of a group of marines in special service. Griffin never explains the game in the slightest, but his characters are often playing it when they are interrupted by the war, i.e. required to stop playing to perform some duty.

In 1978 a type-in program BASIC video game version was distributed via the book BASIC Computer Games.[3]

An unsold 1985 game show pilot hosted by Jim McKrell, entitled Split Decision, had contestants playing the game Acey Deucey while answering general knowledge questions. Each player picked a card to share and had their own base card, and tried to fit a card in or bust the other player.

Editor's Note: Este artículo contiene una imagen impactante. La madre de la niña dio su permiso para usarla y mostrar al mundo lo que su hija está viviendo.

Hanan Aqel y su hermana tenían un shekel cada una en sus manos, un regalo de su abuelo para ir y comprar dulces.

Fue un destello de normalidad familiar en Gaza para una niña de nueve años y su hermano menor que terminó en tragedia.

"No escuché su silbido o algo, solo vi una luz roja cuando cayó el misil," recuerda Hanan desde su cama en el Hospital Al-Aqsa Martyrs en el centro de Gaza.

Su voz es áspera y agrietada, después de una cirugía reconstructiva en su cara. Ella tiene quemaduras del 20% en su cara, manos, pecho y pierna. Su hermana, de cinco años, Leene, que caminaba delante de ella, escapó ilesa.

"Había un hombre a mi lado desmembrado y sangrando y un bloque de cemento de edificio cayó sobre mí," dice Hanan.

Hanan es una de miles de pacientes críticamente enfermos que esperan ser evacuados médicamente desde Gaza, pero no pueden salir después del cierre del paso de Rafah a Egipto a principios de mayo.

Después del ataque aéreo, su padre la llevó al hospital, donde también tuvo cirugía para eliminar esquirlas de su cara. Su médico, Mahmoud Mahane, se especializa en quemaduras y lesiones oculares, pero dice que no hay nada más que puedan hacer por ella dentro de Gaza.

"La mayoría de los niños necesitan ser transferidos médicamente", dice, "para un tratamiento más calificado que aquí, ya que no tenemos el tratamiento o las herramientas y carecemos de estos suministros, nos faltan estos suministros."

Ocho meses de guerra han devastado el sistema de salud de Gaza. Decenas de miles de palestinos heridos y una grave escasez de medicamentos, médicos y electricidad han resultado una combinación letal.

La única esperanza para muchos es ser evacuados a través del paso de Rafah a Egipto y recibir tratamiento en países vecinos. Esa vía de escape se ha cortado desde el 7 de mayo cuando el ejército israelí tomó el control del paso y lo cerró.

Egipto dice que no abrirá el paso hasta que el ejército israelí se retire. Cita razones de seguridad: un soldado egipcio fue asesinado el mes pasado en la lucha a lo largo de la frontera.

Israel dice que no entregará el control del paso a las autoridades palestinas, temiendo que Hamas utilice el área para contrabandear armas.

Rik Peepkorn es el representante de la Organización Mundial de la Salud para Cisjordania y Gaza.

Dice que hay al menos 10.000 casos urgentes que necesitan ser evacuados de Gaza para recibir tratamiento, agregando que esto probablemente sea una subestimación dada la dificultad de obtener datos precisos.

"El grupo más grande es las lesiones de guerra y relacionadas ... el trauma grave, la lesión espinal, etc. El otro grupo más grande es, por supuesto, las condiciones crónicas: oncología, cardiovascular, respiratorio, etc."

Antes de la guerra, Peepkorn dice que entre 50 y 100 pacientes salían diariamente para ser tratados en Jerusalén y Cisjordania. Desde el 7 de mayo, no ha podido salir ningún caso a través de Rafah, creando un atasco de desesperación y casos graves.

"El paso de Rafah debería reabrirse lo más rápido posible", dice Peepkorn, "o debería haber una alternativa de cruce o mecanismo aplicado porque no podemos dejar a estos pacientes críticos. No tenemos una estimación en este momento de cuántos de los pacientes que deberían haber salido han muerto realmente."

Antes del cierre del paso el 7 de mayo, varios países habían aceptado casos críticamente enfermos. Algunos pacientes también continuaron siendo transferidos para recibir tratamiento en hospitales israelíes después del comienzo de la guerra, según COGAT, el cuerpo israelí que supervisa los Territorios Palestinos. Peepkorn dice que muchos han dicho que están dispuestos a dar la bienvenida a más.

Pero con el paso cerrado y Egipto e Israel continuando culpándose mutuamente por su cierre continuo, el tiempo se está agotando para algunos.

En el departamento pediátrico del Complejo Médico Nasser en el sur de Gaza, los sonidos de la UCI son abrumadores; un constante caos de máquinas que mantienen a los pacientes bebés con vida.

Kholoud al-Sharqi's bebé recién nacido Malak, que significa Ángel, tenía solo cuatro días cuando su madre habló con mr jack bet apk, sosteniendo a su bebé por primera vez cuando se le permitió salir del incubadora.

Su médico dice que Malak tiene un defecto cardíaco y necesita una operación compleja considerada más allá de las capacidades de su hospital con su falta de combustible para generadores y medicamentos.

"Los doctores hicieron lo necesario," dice al-Sharqi, "pero dijeron que ella debe ser transferida (fuera de Gaza) rápidamente."

Con lágrimas corriéndole por la cara agrega, "Uno de los doctores me dijo que no tuviera muchas esperanzas. Esa frase es tan difícil de escuchar."
