Rake Structure

The 'Rake per 100 Hands (€)' and 'Rake Paid per 100 Hands (BB)' columns are based on 80.7 million hands of data-mining research conducted by the Rakeback research department. These figures were datamined from heads up, 6-Max and Full Ring tables, and are most accurate when the table is full.

NO LIMIT HOLD'EM (NLHE)

Rake is

5% above microstakes. Rake is collected incrementally, e.g €0.01 per €0.20 in the pot.

Eleições iranianas revelam insatisfação com o sistema de governo

A baixa participação na eleição presidencial iraniana de sexta-feira expressou o descontentamento dos iranianos com o sistema de governo do país. A participação recordemente baixa ajudou dois candidatos do estabelecimento a chegarem a uma segunda rodada.

Na segunda rodada, jogo de cartas bacara 5 de julho, os eleitores terão a escolha final entre um ex-ministro da Saúde reformista, Dr. Masoud Pezeshkian, e um ex-negociador nuclear ultraconservador, Saeed Jalili. Nenhum dos candidatos conseguiu obter mais de 50% dos votos necessários para vencer a presidência, adiando ainda por uma semana a questão de quem conduzirá o Irã através dos desafios, incluindo uma economia enfraquecida, a distância entre governantes e governados e uma guerra vizinha que continua ameaçando arrastar o Irã mais fundo.

No entanto, mesmo pertencendo a dois campos diferentes, nenhum dos homens é esperado para trazer mudanças significativas para o Irã, visto que deverão governar com a aprovação final do líder supremo iraniano, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.

Irã continuar rejeitando o sistema

Apenas 40% dos iranianos elegíveis votaram na sexta-feira, de acordo com dados governamentais, um recorde histórico de baixa participação jogo de cartas bacara uma eleição presidencial iraniana - mesmo inferior ao nível de 41% relatado para as eleições parlamentares do país este ano.
