Luke Littler and Luke Humphries will contest the PDC's Paddy Power World Darts

Championship final and our guide includes tournament statistics, head-to-head records, how they got here, betting tips plus TV details of when and where to watch.

After 15

days of history-making darting drama featuring classic matches, shocks, herculean comebacks, unexpected runs and 878 180s that's generated £878,000 to Prostate Cancer

UK, the Sid Waddell Trophy will be fittingly lifted by a new champion. It'll either be a 16-year-old whose astonishing talents and lack of fear continue to defy belief or the new world number one who is chasing his fourth major title since the start of October.

The only thing we're missing - like we were at this stage of last year's edition - is a nine-dart finish but we all know how that can change in potentially 13 more sets to come. Luke Humphries is the marginal favourite after finally rediscovering his best form following a sluggish start to the tournament but Luke Littler will have pretty much everyone on his side as he bids to become the youngest world darts champion of all time. Enough of the scene setting, here's a closer look at all the key statistics and other various factors to help you with your bets ahead Wednesday night's climax at the Alexandra Palace... Darts betting tips: World Championship final 2pts Either player to hit a nine-dart finish at 8/1 (William Hill, BetVictor) 2pts Luke Humphries to win and Normally this section of my major final previews is packed full of past meetings but obviously the fact we've got a 16-year-old finalist who hasn't even played on the PDC Tour yet means there's pretty much nothing to see here! However, the sporting romantic in me wants to include their only known clash in a small Hayling Island competition back in 2024 when Humphries beat a 12-year-old Littler in the quarter-finals. Littler was asked about this after his stunning victory over Rob Cross on Tuesday night and I found it quite endearing that he focused more on how far Humphries has come since that meeting rather than himself!

170 Match Treble% (win, most 180s + high C/O): 60% - 40% If you isolated these stats and ignored every other factor including age and inexperience - although Littler is making both of those seem completely and utterly irrelevant anyway - then you'd probably have to make the 'Nuke' the slight favourite. Even though averages are 'just a guide', to be well above 100 after six matches is the kind of level reached or exceeded by the likes of Phil Taylor, Michael van Gerwen and Gary Anderson down the years, while he's also managed it two more times than Humphries. However, Cool Hand has moved through the gears in emphatic fashion in his last two matches after dodging multiple bullets in the previous rounds and if he maintains that standard then Littler may finally meet his match. As for the other areas of the games, it couldn't be much closer. They are both level of 50 maximums in the race to lift the Ballon d'Art and judging from their 180 per leg rates, that trophy hangs in the balance too. We could also see plenty of 100+ checkouts given how prolific they've been - Humphries even managed six in the 18 legs he won against Scott Williams. CLICK HERE to back both

Breathtaking isn't it? If you were shown these match-by-match statistics and were told 'this is what Phil Taylor/Michael van Gerwen/Gary Anderson' managed on his way to the * final', for example, you believe them and also whimsically remember just how good they were in their pomp. And here's an interesting fact for you that further underlines how staggering his stats are. Those aforementioned legends above are the only players to have managed four or more 100+ averages en route to a final! Taylor and Anderson have done it in four different tournaments apiece while MVG did it in three. This lad is special. In Brendan Dolan, he battered a player who made life so difficult for Gerwyn Price and Anderson but the only thing missing from this run - and I expressed this during my preview for the semi-finals in which I foolishly backed Rob Cross - was that he hadn't felt the pressure of playing anyone ranked higher than 20th who could throw a big average in against him. Well he handled that well, didn't he! Voltage averaged 102 and even won the opening set but Littler bounced back to brush another former world champion aside without hardly breaking sweat. Littler even said afterwards that nothing has felt difficult. So not only does he make it look easy, he probably actually feels like it is. The only player who has given him something to think about is Andrew Gilding, who managed to win eight of the 17 legs played despite losing 3-1 in sets.

Humphries stormed into the World Championship as the favourite - and my pre-tournament tip - because there was quite frankly no stopping him. He was winning majors and posting 100+ averages for fun, while he was continually showing the kind of mental strength that was lacking from his game in previous seasons. Then all of a sudden his momentum ground to a worrying halt when trailing Ricardo Pietreczko in front raucous German support 3-1 in round three and it looked as though nothing could save him. Certainly not his actual darts, which were a brand new set due to a point breaking off one of his usual set. But after winning the deciding leg of set five, he went on to win six of the next seven legs to pull off an incredible comeback and keep his hopes alive. Those hopes were hanging by a thread in the very next round when survived two match darts against a heart-broken Joe Cullen before coming through one of most ridiculous endings you'll ever see. If he does indeed lift this trophy then he'll have no shortage of 'what if' moments to look back on but he left nothing to chance in the last two rounds, averaging 103.5 and 108.74 against Dave Chisnall and Scott Williams respectively, dropping just one set combined. That's his scary level - especially the 108.74 which is the 10th highest average in World Championship history - and one I really hope he delivers tonight against Littler. Not just because I backed him, but because if Littler can respond with something similar, we could be about to witness one of the most astonishing finals ever. World Championship final predictions and tips This is the most eagerly-anticipated World Championship final for generations and all signs point to this living up to the hype in the same way Taylor v Barney did all those years ago. The fact that it's so hard to call is also remarkable because it's a clash between a pre-tournament favourite and a 16-year-old who nobody thought would be here before a dart was thrown. But way Littler despatched Rob Cross, who produced big numbers, proved he really can cope with a proper world title contender on the biggest stage of all and really isn't fazed by the pressure whatsoever. He'll just get up there again and so pretty much the same as if he's been doing it for years. Humphries' calming and friendly presence obviously won't intimidate him and, if anything, there's been more fear factor built up around Littler's game. He's made grown men buckle up there despite all the experience they had. Cool Hand, however, is a completely different proposition. One of his strongest assets now is his mental strength and the fact he rarely shows any sign of emotion anymore. He too will stay focused and keep trusting his own process. Their fast, free-flowing styles will also compliment each other. It will be an absolute darting joy to watch. This time last year I tipped a nine-dart finish in the final and I'm going to do the same again. I'm even tempted to tip both of them to have one given how spectacular they're playing and the amount of sets we may see but I'll be slightly less bold and stick with any perfect leg at 8/1. I also love how this bet can never be dead until the winning double is hit. CLICK HERE to back either player to hit a nine-dart finish with Sky Bet If Humphries had laboured into this final then I would absolutely be going for Littler but Cool Hand's dominance in the last two games shows he's back to his very best and in no mood to mess around with drama anymore. The world number one will want to go out and put Littler to the sword - and that's exactly the mentality he'll need to stand a chance. I'm going to throw in Humphries to fire in the most 180s as well because he was managing 0.43 and 0.56 per leg in the past two matches and if he's in relentless mood tonight, not even Littler's impressive levels will keep up. Both are landing a prolific number of 100+ checkouts so we can expect a fair few of those as well, especially if we get plenty of sets that we're all expecting. Finally, sit back and place a fictional £1000 on it being one of the best finals of all time. I'll give you 1/1000! Jonatan Giráldez: el éxito sin precedentes de Barcelona en tres años

Jonatan Giráldez ha logrado un éxito que nunca imaginó en 5 Barcelona, y todo esto en solo tres años. A los 32 años, ha ganado nueve de los 11 trofeos disponibles 5 desde que asumió el cargo en 2024. El sábado, cuando Barcelona juegue contra Lyon en la final de la Champions 5 League, podría ser su décimo trofeo en doce oportunidades.

Uno de los trofeos que se le escaparon fue la Copa de 5 la Reina de la temporada pasada, ya que Barcelona fue descalificado por alinear a un jugador inelegible (obviamente habían ganado 5 el juego 9-0). El otro fue más difícil de aceptar, pero ahora brinda la oportunidad de redención: la derrota en 5 la final de la Champions League 2024 ante Lyon.

Giráldez aún no ha derrotado a Lyon, pero si su equipo sale 5 victorioso, partirá a los Estados Unidos después de ganar el cuadruplete en su última temporada. Este año, Giráldez anunció que 5 se unirá a la National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) para dirigir al Washington Spirit.

Cuando nos reunimos en el estadio 5 Johan Cruyff, está de buen humor.

"Barcelona me ha dado todo. Me ha permitido dedicarme a lo que más amo", dijo. 5 "Que pude recibir un trabajo en otro país, en otro contexto y en otro club; es gracias a Barcelona."

Giráldez llegó 5 al club en 2024 como asistente del entrenador Lluís Cortés. En 2024, justo dos días después del anuncio de que 5 Cortés se iba, Barcelona anunció que Giráldez daría un paso adelante para reemplazarlo. En su primera temporada como entrenador, permanecieron 5 invictos en la liga y llegaron a la final de la Champions League. "Creo en lo que he podido dar 5 al club, ha sido una sinergia en la que ambos nos hemos beneficiado. Era un fanático de Barcelona incluso antes 5 de comenzar a trabajar para el club y ahora, siempre lo seré", dijo.

El éxito en cifras

En las últimas tres temporadas, 5 el lado catalán ha ganado 85 de 88 partidos de Liga F. En Europa, Giráldez tiene un récord de 26 5 victorias, cuatro derrotas y dos empates en 32 partidos, con 112 goles a favor y 32 en contra. A pesar 5 de que los números lo hacen parecer fácil, el equipo ha tenido que superar muchos obstáculos para continuar en una 5 trayectoria ascendente. "Ha sido muy enriquecedor porque todos dicen, 'estás en Barcelona, estás acostumbrado a ganar'. Es cierto, pero lo miras 5 y jugamos de manera diferente cada temporada", explicó Giráldez.

"En una base defensiva, hemos tenido centrocampistas y extremos por igual. Cuando 5 cambias las cosas tácticamente de manera defensiva, siempre tienes algo en lo que trabajar en el entrenamiento y te vuelves 5 menos predecible para los oponentes. En un nivel ofensivo, hemos tenido cambios cada temporada".

Superando las dificultades

La partida de Lieke Martens 5 y Jennifer Hermoso en el verano de 2024 significó perder a dos de los tres jugadores atacantes iniciales y, en 5 total, 254 goles del club entre ellos. La salida de Asisat Oshoala a mitad de temporada significó otra pérdida de 5 117 goles, dejando a Barcelona sin delantero centro natural.

"¿Cómo ajustas al equipo ofensivamente para continuar produciendo esos goles? ¿Cómo acercas 5 a Aitana [Bonmatí] al área? ¿Cómo maximizas a Caro [Graham Hansen] y Salma [Paralluelo]? ¿Cómo incorporas a Lucy [Bronze] a 5 un estilo de juego en el que nuestro lateral derecho siempre ha estado mucho más bajo que nuestro lateral izquierdo? 5 Lo que ha dado ofensivamente ha hecho que ajustemos diferentes piezas en el campo", dijo Giráldez.

La lesión de Alexia Putellas 5 en 2024 causó un desequilibrio importante en el campo, forzando a Barcelona a una nueva incorporación de centrocampista. La lesión 5 de Mapi León desde diciembre de 2024 dejó a Barcelona sin una de sus columnas defensivas. Cata Coll, mientras tanto, 5 regresó de una lesión y, después de un gran verano con España en la Copa del Mundo de 2024, ha 5 tomado el lugar de Sandra Paños como portera titular después de nueve años, forzando un cambio en la línea defensiva.

"Hay 5 mucho: poner a Ingrid [Engen] como central, ¿cómo afectaría la posición de Patri [Guijarro] en el centro del campo? Mirando 5 la lesión de Alexia. Firmamos a Keira [Walsh] y no firmamos a un jugador con un perfil más ofensivo porque 5 sabíamos que Patri daría un papel más ofensivo fuera del papel de centrocampista defensivo porque sabíamos que era capaz de 5 eso".

El enfoque competitivo

Un equipo compuesto por Putellas, Bonmatí y Graham Hansen no necesitaba mucha elevación en una escala futbolística, por 5 lo que Giráldez implementó lo que pensaba que les faltaba para llevar al equipo a un nuevo nivel prominent
