The final act of what is a quite stunning sporting weekend will involve one very special golfer being awarded a much coveted green jacket at Augusta.

A day after the winner of the Grand National has been cheered to the Aintree rafters and just a few hours after the Premier League's top-two sides, Manchester City and Liverpool, have served up a frustrating 0-0 draw that does neither any favours, the eyes of the sporting world will switch focus to the southeastern state of Georgia, home of the unilaterally famous Augusta National Golf Club.

So who will be fighting out that final round on Sunday? Well, from a TV ratings perspective there is no better-case scenario that Tiger Woods going into that final round with a shot at glory. It would be quite a story, likely the best go ever told in the game of golf, but it's surely too much to ask and his tournament participation is still to be confirmed.

New world number one Scottie Scheffler is unquestionably the form horse. A winner of three of his last five tournaments, Scheffler's star is firmly in the ascendancy but with that comes a level of pressure and expectation that he has never before experienced. He'll do extremely well to justify his position near the top of the market.

So too will the man Scheffler deposed at the top of the world rankings, John Rahm. The Spaniard has posted four successive top-ten Augusta finishes but he's winless since last year's US open and putting frailties continue to frustrate him.

If Justin Thomas can find his best putting form, he has the game to topple Augusta and he's gone well at the track before having finished fourth in 2024, but he has fallen short in the big events more often than not and he's another at the top of the market that doesn't really offer any value. Koepka value at 18/1

At bigger odds, a more appealing Masters wager is Brooks Koepka who can be backed at 18/1 with Betfred.

Few players in the world have the ability to prime themselves for the biggest events as Koepka, a four-time major winner who can readily be excused missing the cut in this tournament last year as he was returning from injury. The 31-year-old quickly got back into the groove by posting top six finishes in the three remaining majors.

Koepka had to settle for second behind Tiger Woods in the 2024 Masters but he would probably have won had he not found Rae's Creek on the 12th and there can be no doubt that he has the game and the mentality to make amends now. He rates a strong each-way wager at 18/1, especially with the safety net of eight places.

Best of the rest

Tony Finau (45/1) looks worth a small investment having found some form in Texas last week. The American is yet to strike in majors but his classy long game lends itself well to the demands of Augusta and three top-ten efforts in four previous Masters outings strongly indicate that he plays this track well.

Unlike previous seasons, Finau heads to Augusta with a big tournament win under his belt having landed The Northern Trust last August, something that could make all the difference in terms of mindset should the 32-year-old be in a challenging position on Sunday.

Recommended bets:

Brooks Koepka - 1pt each-way @ 18/1

Tony Finau - 0.5pts each-way @ 45/1

Justin Jefferson concuerda extensión de contrato récord con los Vikings

Justin Jefferson está listo para convertirse en el receptor abierto mejor pagado en la historia de la NFL, según ESPN, luego de acordar una extensión de contrato de cuatro años y R$140 millones con los Minnesota Vikings. ESPN también informa que R$110 millones del contrato están garantizados.

Los Vikings confirmaron la extensión el lunes por la mañana.

Un acuerdo beneficioso para ambas partes

El acuerdo es beneficioso para ambas partes. Jefferson obtendrá el dinero que cree que merece como uno de los mejores receptores de la liga, mientras que los Vikings asegurarán a una estrella de 24 años que ingresa a lo que deberían ser sus años de mayor rendimiento. El trato también dará a JJ McCarthy, quien los Vikings seleccionaron este año como un reemplazo a largo plazo en la posición de mariscal de campo de Kirk Cousins, un objetivo confiable.

Una carrera llena de éxitos

Jefferson fue seleccionado en el puesto 22 en el draft de la NFL de 2024 y fue All-Pro en sus tres primeras temporadas en la liga, y lideró la NFL en yardas receiving en 2024, cuando también fue nombrado Jugador Ofensivo del Año de la NFL. A pesar de perderse siete partidos por lesión la temporada pasada, Jefferson aún superó las 1,000 yardas receiving por cuarta temporada consecutiva.

Algo que solía ser un sueño ahora es mi realidad. Hay muchas personas a las que puedo sentarme y agradecer, pero tú sabes quién eres y me ayudaste en el camino. Pero no nos detendremos aquí... Todavía hay más por hacer... ¡SKOL!!!!!! {nn}

JJETS (JJettas2) June 3, 2024

"Algo que solía ser un sueño ahora es mi realidad", dijo Jefferson. "Hay muchas personas a las que puedo sentarme y agradecer, pero tú sabes quién eres y me ayudaste en el camino. Pero no nos detendremos aquí."

Un justo reconocimiento

Jefferson rechazó una nueva oferta al inicio de la temporada pasada, optando por apostarle a su talento para brillar y obtener un mejor contrato. Esa apuesta ha dado resultados: la extensión de contrato promediaría R$35 millones por año, comparado con los R$28 millones por año que los Vikings le ofrecieron la temporada pasada. Otros equipos de la NFL habían mostrado interés en un canje de Jefferson, pero los Vikings fueron firmes en su decisión de mantenerlo.

Un nuevo estándar en la NFL

El contrato también establecerá un hito, ya que otros receptores jóvenes talentosos como CeeDee Lamb de los Dallas Cowboys, Brandon Aiyuk de los San Francisco 49ers y Tee Higgins de ``less los Cincinnati Bengals buscarán acordar nuevos contratos.
