Grécia Anunciará Dois Parques Marinhos em Áreas do Mar Jônico e Egeu

The Greek Minister of Environment and Energy, Theodoros Skylakakis, announced a sports betting international conference in Athens that the country will create two new marine parks in the Aegean and Ionian seas by the end of the year.

Skylakakis said that the scientific studies to determine details, such as which species will be protected and which measures will be taken, will be concluded and implemented by the end of the year.

"A real protection must be based on real science", said Skylakakis.

The creation of the park in the Aegean sea has already caused irritation in Turkey, a neighbor and regional rival of Greece, which accused Athens of exploring environmental issues to make a geopolitical agenda. The two member countries of NATO have contradictions for decades on various issues, including territorial claims in the Aegean sea.

The Aegean sea park will have the objective of protecting marine birds and will cover more than 8,000 square kilometers (3,088 square miles) or about 6.6% of the Greek territorial waters.

The new park in the Ionian sea, in the west of Greece, will focus on the protection of marine mammals and will extend for more than 14,000 square kilometers (more than 5,400 square miles) from the north of the island of Kefallonia to Antikythira in the south, covering 11% of the Greek territorial waters.

A new system to monitor the parks will include the use of drones, satellites and artificial intelligence. The sports betting monitoring by traditional means will be until then, said Skylakakis, with the monitoring by traditional means until then.

The creation of the parks was part of the promises of Greece during the Our Ocean conference, with other measures, such as a ban on bottom trawling in national marine parks until 2026 and sports betting in all marine areas protected until 2030, reducing plastic pollution and mapping marine habitats in protected areas.

More than 120 countries and 20 international and regional organizations attended the two-day conference, recording R$11.3 billion in sports betting commitments for environmental protection related to the ocean, affirmed the organizers.
