A German court decided on Wednesday that a demonstrator, game 365bet a manifestation held in October (local time) against Israel and shouting "From the river to the sea Palestine will be free", had tolerated acts of terrorism - the attacks led by Hamas on the Israeli country - in addition to the fine imposed for 600 euros.

The slogan, which has radical interpretations and was later banned in Germany as an appeal for the elimination of Israel. The judicial action had been seen as a proof of this law

The judge of the case, Birgit Balzer said that the phrase "only could be understood as a denial of the right of Israel to exist and an endorsement for the attack", according to the game 365bet Tiergarten.

The Israel-Hamas conflict highlighted the delicate balance in Germany between freedom of expression and the country's relations with the Israelis. One of the bases of the German Federal Republic since the Holocaust is to support the relationship with the Israelis, a principle known as Staatsrson or "state reason". Since 7/10 (activism) for this tension has been awakened by the possibility of cancellations in the face of a ban on something that can be said about them/let's have war!

The demonstrator who was fined, Ava Moayeri is a 22-year-old German. She was facing the maximum penalty in prison for three years and game 365bet interview after her lawyer Alexander Gorski said: "This day is quite dark for freedom of expression in the country", he challenged the judge on game 365bet characterization of the term

"From my point of view, the slogan should never be part of a criminal investigation; if some people are unhappy with a phrase that should be counterbalanced by their own ideas - it is like a liberal democracy should function", said Gorski. But game 365bet once said the German state and Berlin is imposing repression on the pro-Palestinian movement. He added: "My client planned to appeal for a Palestinian movement."

The phrase used in the case of Mrs. Moayeri was banned in Germany since November, when Nancy Faeser, the interior minister who banned activities of support for Hamas - which the country considers a terrorist group - is prohibited by German law and includes a complicated history dating back to the 1960s: it refers to the land between the Jordan River (which connects Israel) to the east; or be...

In the last few months, German leaders - and courts - have argued with many interpretations of the phrase. The German justice minister Marco Buschmann said that the slogan is equivalent to "condoning the assassinations committed in Israel" in the attacks of 7/10/17. Although the phrase preceded the attacks of 7 October, Buschmann said game 365bet a communication from his office on Wednesday: "The slogan 'From the river to the sea' is the Hamas motto. Hamas is prohibited in Germany."

"The use of the slogan can, therefore, constitute the use of signs or propaganda for a prohibited organization", he added.

In April, the courts in Bremen and Baden-Württemberg rejected cases presented by activists who challenged the rules prohibiting the pro-Hamas activity.

But game 365bet in June, a court in Bavaria decided that a manifestation in Munich poderia fazê-lo. A decisão citou as múltiplas interpretações possíveis do slogan e pediu às autoridades para cuidarem no equilíbrio entre liberdade expressiva ou segurança; a frase não pode ser banida por causa "da importância constitucionalmente protegida".
