Meshell Ndegeocello lanza álbum en homenaje a James Baldwin por su centenario

James Baldwin, escritor y activista estadounidense, nació en Harlem hace 100 años. Su trabajo se centró en su lucha personal por vivir libremente entre las barreras del racismo y la homofobia, y en cómo su cuerpo se convirtió en un campo de batalla político. Para conmemorar su centenario, la cantante y bajista estadounidense Meshell Ndegeocello lanzó un álbum titulado "No More Water: The Gospel of James Baldwin", en el que incorpora las propias palabras de Baldwin y le rinde homenaje a su vida, obra y legado.

Un diálogo musical con la vida y obra de James Baldwin

El álbum está construido como cuatro caras de un doble vinilo y presenta diferentes estilos y vocalistas que representan diferentes aspectos de la historia de Baldwin. Ndegeocello es la mente maestra detrás del proyecto, con su voz y su habilidad como bajista dando forma a las canciones. El álbum fluye entre géneros, desde el funk y el gospel hasta el soul y el R&B, creando una experiencia auditiva que refleja la complejidad y la riqueza de la vida y el trabajo de Baldwin.

Explorando la intersección entre raza, sexualidad y género

El álbum no solo rinde homenaje a la vida y obra de Baldwin, sino que también extiende su mirada crítica a la América actual. La poeta Staceyann Chin ofrece una perspectiva femenina y una mirada interseccional a la lucha de Baldwin contra el racismo y la homofobia. Su monólogo "Tsunami Rising" es un testimonio poderoso que aborda la esclavitud, el movimiento #MeToo y el feminismo, y que está acompañado por el saxofonista Josh Johnson. La canción "Raise the Roof" es una explosión de ira y una llamada a la acción en respuesta a los asesinatos que inspiraron el movimiento Black Lives Matter.

La música como forma de comunicación más elocuente que las palabras

El álbum está lleno de hermosas letras, pero en última instancia, confirma la convicción de Baldwin de que nada es más elocuente sobre lo que hay detrás de las palabras que la música. La música de Ndegeocello es un tributo a la vida y el legado de Baldwin, y una celebración de la capacidad de la música para transmitir emociones y experiencias que van más allá de las palabras.
