Introdução:

Hello! Welcome to my case study on the psychological experiences of playing poker with real money. As a psychology student, I have always been fascinated by the psychological aspects of gambling, and I decided to conduct a case study on poker players who play with real money. In this case study, I will be exploring the experiences of poker players who play with real money, the psychological factors that influence their behavior, and the impact of playing poker on their mental state.

Background:

Poker is a popular card game that has been around for centuries. In recent years, the game has gained immense popularity, particularly with the advent of online poker. The game offers a unique combination of luck, skill, and strategy, which appeals to people from all walks of life. However, playing poker with real money can be risky, and players need to be aware of the potential risks involved.

Methods:

For this case study, I recruited 20 poker players who play with real money. The participants were selected from various online poker communities and were interviewed using a semi-structured interview guide. The interviews were audio recorded and transcribed verbatim. The data collected was analyzed using thematic analysis, which allowed for the identification of patterns and themes in the data.

Results:

The results of the study showed that the majority of participants were male, aged between 25-45, and were employed full-time. All participants reported spending money on poker games at least once a week, with some spending as much as R$1,000 per month. The majority of participants reported feeling excited and nervous when playing poker with real money, with some participants reporting feelings of anxiety and stress.

The thematic analysis revealed five main themes:

1. Excitement and Anticipation: Many participants reported feeling a rush of excitement and anticipation when playing poker with real money. The possibility of winning big and the thrill of the game were seen as appealing aspects of playing with real money.

2. Fear of Losing: Fear of losing was a common theme that emerged from the data. Many participants reported feeling anxious about losing money, especially when they were on a losing streak. The fear of losing money and the potential consequences of losing were reported as a significant source of stress for participants.
3. Social Interaction: The social aspect of playing poker with real money was also a significant theme that emerged from the data. Many participants reported enjoying the social interaction that comes with playing poker with others, whether it was online or in-person.
4. Skill vs. Luck: Participants reported varying levels of skill and luck in their poker games. While some participants believed that luck played a more significant role in winning, others believed that skill was more important.
5. Addiction: A small portion of participants reported struggling with what they believed to be an addiction to playing poker with real money. These participants reported feeling a strong urge to play poker, even when they knew they should stop.

Conclusion:

Playing poker with real money can be a thrilling and exciting experience, but it can also lead to negative consequences such as addiction and financial problems. The results of this case study highlight the psychological factors that influence players' behavior when playing poker with real money. Understanding these factors can help advocates and policymakers develop strategies to promote responsible gambling practices and reduce the risk of negative consequences associated with gambling.

Recommendations:

Based on the results of this case study, it is essential to raise awareness about the potential risks associated with playing poker with real money. Online poker communities could benefit from implementing responsible gambling policies and providing resources for players struggling with addiction or financial problems. Furthermore, policymakers could consider implementing regulations to protect players and reduce the risks associated with gambling.

Insights:

The results of this case study offer valuable insights into the psychological experiences of playing poker with real money. It is clear that the majority of participants enjoyed the excitement and social interaction that comes with playing poker, but there were also negative consequences such as fear of losing and, in some cases, addiction. By understanding these factors, we can work towards ensuring that players engage in responsible gambling practices and reduce the risk of negative consequences associated with gambling.

This case study contributes to the understanding of the psychological aspects of gambling and the experiences of poker players who play with real money. The findings suggest that poker players are motivated by a combination of excitement, social interaction, skill, and luck. However, playing poker with real money can also have negative consequences such as fear of losing and addiction. Understanding these factors is essential for promoting responsible gambling practices and reducing the risk of negative consequences associated with gambling.

The findings of this case study have implications for online poker communities and policymakers who seek to promote responsible gambling practices. By implementing responsible gambling policies, raising awareness about the risks associated with poker, and providing resources for players struggling with addiction or financial problems, we can ensure that playing poker with real money remains a safe and exciting activity for all players.

Limitations:
There were several limitations to this study that should be acknowledged. First, the sample size was relatively small, and the participants were drawn from a narrow demographic. Future studies should aim to recruit a larger and more diverse sample to provide a more comprehensive understanding of the psychological experiences of poker players who play with real money.

Second, this study was limited to online poker communities, and future studies should consider exploring the experiences of players in live poker settings.

Future studies should also consider exploring the psychological experiences of players who engage in other forms of gambling, such as slot machines or lottery.

Conclusion:

This case study provides valuable insights into the psychological experiences of playing poker with real money. By understanding the factors that influence players' behavior and the impact of poker on their mental state, we can work towards ensuring that players engage in responsible gambling practices and reduce the risk of negative consequences associated with gambling. This study contributes to the understanding of the psychological aspects of gambling and provides essential information for online poker communities and policymakers who seek to promote responsible gambling practices. The findings of this study have implications for poker players, online poker communities and policymakers.

Additionally, this study provides a starting point for future research to explore the psychological experiences of players in other forms of gambling.
