Nelly Korda enfrenta un inicio desastroso en el Abierto de Estados Unidos

Nelly Korda, the best female golfer in the world, began her participation in the Abierto de Estados Unidos with a nightmare in the 12th hole of the Lancaster Country Club. After a bad start, the American competitor committed a disastrous septuple bogey that left her with a marker of +8 at the beginning of the round.

Korda began with a bogey in the 10th hole, then failed to have enough distance in her shot from 160 yards. Her ball landed just before the green and rolled down a steep slope of about 35 yards.

The American was the favorite for the most important event of the LPGA calendar, having won six of her last seven appearances. This included the first major of the year in the Chevron Championship, where she tied the LPGA record with her fifth consecutive victory.

Korda only has two top 10s in the Abierto de Estados Unidos, known for being the most difficult test in golf due to its difficult configuration.
