Complete guide to install and configure the converter and HUD for PPPoker
Over the past few years, mobile poker apps from Asia have become a breath of fresh air for professional players. Very lucrative pools and weak opponents have become a powerful argument for the poker migration. And the constantly deteriorating playing conditions in the leading poker rooms stimulate even the most conservative players to seek alternatives.

One of the most popular mobile applications is PPPoker. In terms of traffic volume, PPPoker significantly surpasses most similar places for the game. The mobile poker room regularly holds various promotions to attract new players, signs contracts with professional players, and even conducts large offline series. Everything seems to be good, but what's the catch?

The catch lies on the surface: PPPoker is a mobile poker application, which means that neither PokerTracker 4, Holdem Manager 3, Hand2Note, nor DriveHUD can directly import hand histories from there. Hence, no HUD and no statistics while playing. Are we putting an end to the plans to develop new PPPoker waters? No matter how it is! There is a solution and it is called "PPPKer HUD Catcher".

What is PPPoker HUD Catcher?

PPPKer HUD Catcher is a poker program that works in conjunction with Holdem Manager 3, PokerTracker 4, Hand2Note, DriveHUD and allows you to display HUD and import hand history while playing in the PPPoker application. Unlike most other Asian poker applications, PPPoker has recently had a significant advantage - an official client for Windows. In practice, the availability of PPPoker on PC also saves you from a headache of setting up Android emulators. HUD Catcher works both at cash tables and in tournaments.

The poker room does not prohibit the use of poker trackers (although there is no separate list with allowed programs on PPPoker). In practice, no one had any problems with the HUD.

How to install PPPoker HUD

Catcher?

Installing PPPoker HUD Catcher is very simple:

1. Go to the official website of the developer and click "Download free trial today";
2. Select the folder where the program will be installed and click "Install". The installation file weighs 22 megabytes;
3. Within a minute Card Catcher will be installed on your computer. Click "Launch".

How to activate PPPoker HUD Catcher free trial?

Before purchasing a license for PPPoker HUD Catcher, we strongly recommend that you try the free trial first. It is provided on the developer's website. The trial version will work without restrictions on functionality within 7 days from the date of activation. The procedure for obtaining a trial is also very simple:

1. Start Card Catcher;
2. In the first window after the start, you will be offered a choice between trial version, purchase or registration. Click on "Trial";
3. You will be prompted to enter your email to activate the trial version. Enter your e-mail and click OK;
4. Congratulations - the trial version of PPPoker HUD Catcher is activated.

First launch of PPPoker HUD Catcher

When you start

PPPokers Card Catcher for the first time, you will be prompted to select your database.

PPPokers Card Catcher supports:

DriveHUD;

Holdem Manager 2;

Holdem Manager

3;

PokerTracker 4;

Hand2Note.

Hands are also imported into Holdem Manager and Poker

Tracker 3, however the HUD will not work in old versions of trackers. Card Catcher will automatically configure your import folders. However, we recommend that you double-check to make sure the database is being imported from the correct folder. We will tell you how to do this separately for each tracker below.

How to set up PPPoker

HUD Catcher for PokerTracker 4?

1. In PokerTracker 4, check the import folder setting by clicking "Configure" in the top menu options. Then click "Site & Import Options". Select iPoker from the list of poker networks on the left. Make sure the checkbox next to "Get Hands From Site While Playing" is checked. Make sure the path to the correct folder is specified in the "Directories Configuration". If you used the default installation directory, it will be: C:\Program Files (x86)\Ace Poker Solutions\PPPokers Card Catcher\HandHistories. If it's not there, click the "Add" button and add: C:\Program Files (x86)\Ace Poker Solutions\PPPokers Card Catcher\HandHistories. Click OK and close the screen.
2. Start the PPPoker client and log into your account.

3. After import folder is configured properly, make sure PPPoker Card Catcher shows "Stop Catching" message (which means it loads hands while playing and creates hand histories) in the main interface. If for some reason this does not happen, click "Stop Catcher".

4. Finally, in Poker Tracker 4, click "Play Poker" and "Get Hands While Playing".

5. Load multiple tables using the PPPoker app and start playing. The HUD will need a few hands to work properly and then it will appear on the tables.

How to set up PPPoker HUD Catcher for Holdem Manager 2?

1. In Holdem Manager 2, click on "Site Setup". On the left side of the preferences window, choose "iPoker". Under Auto Import Folders, make sure the correct (PP Poker Card Catcher) import folder is selected.

If you used the default installation directory, it will be: C: \ Program Files (x86) \ Ace Poker Solutions \ PPPoker Card Catcher \ HandHistories. If it's not there, click the green plus button and add: C: \ Program Files (x86) \ Ace Poker Solutions \ PPPoker Card Catcher \ HandHistories. Click "Close" to complete the settings.

2. Start the

PP Poker client and log into your account.

3. After import folder is configured properly, click "Start Catcher" in PPPoker Card Catcher.

4. That's it, import is set up. You may need to click on "Stop HUD" and "Start HUD" on the "Active Session" screen of Holdem Manager, but this is not necessary.

If you want to manually attach the HUD, follow these steps:

In Holdem Manager 2, click the "Active Session" tab. Choose whether you are playing cash games or tournaments and then click "Stop HUD".

Then click "Start

HUD" and wait until you have played at least one hand on the table you are sitting at.

Once you play your hand, click the Table Finder button.

In the table search pop-up window, select one of the tables you are playing at, and then right-click and hold down the cross in the lower left corner of the screen and drag it to the corresponding table name. Make sure to match the table you selected first to the table you are now dragging the cross to.

Finally, he will ask you if you want to add a HUD to this table. Make sure the table name is correct and click OK. Repeat the steps for each table you play at.

How to set up Card Catcher for Hand2Note?

Important: close Hand2Note before installing PPPoker Card Catcher.

1. Open the menu in Hand2Note (3 bars in the upper left corner of the tracker);

2. From the list that appears, select "Configuration" (the last line);

3. In the "Auto Import Folders" section, check if the PPPoker Card Catcher folder is selected. If you used the default installation location, the folder will look like this: C: \ Program Files (x86) \ Ace Poker Solutions \ PPPoker Card Catcher \ Handhistories. If it is not in the list, click the "Add Folder" button and in the folder add: C: \ Program Files (x86) \ Ace Poker Solutions \ PPPoker Card Catcher \ Handhistories. Click "Save" in the upper right corner and close the settings window.

Start the PPPoker client and log into your account.

5. After import folder is configured properly, click "Start Catcher" in PPPoker Card Catcher.

How to set up

PPPOker HUD Catcher for DriveHUD?

Once you've selected DriveHUD as your default database, there is nothing else you need to do or configure. Make sure you download PPPoker Card Catcher first and then your PPPoker client. Wait for at least 1 hand to be played and your HUD will appear after that.

Supremo Tribunal de Israel ordena al Gobierno recrutar a judíos ultraortodoxos

El Tribunal Supremo de Israel ordenó al Gobierno que reclute a judíos ultraortodoxos en el ejército, lo que supone un revés para el primer ministro Benjamin Netanyahu que tiene el potencial de desintegrar su coalición gobernante.

El tribunal también ordenó al Gobierno que retire la financiación de cualquier escuela religiosa, o yeshivas, cuyos estudiantes no cumplan con las notificaciones de reclutamiento.

"El Gobierno quería distinguir a nivel de aplicación de la ley entre los individuos en función de su afiliación de grupo", dijo el tribunal en su fallo. "Se determinó que al hacerlo, el Gobierno dañó gravemente la primacía del derecho y el principio de que todos los individuos son iguales ante la ley."

Los judíos ultraortodoxos (o Haredi) han estado, de facto, exentos del servicio militar nacional obligatorio desde la fundación de Israel (los ciudadanos palestinos de Israel también están exentos). Los hombres ultraortodoxos pasan gran parte de sus primeros años fuera de la fuerza laboral, completamente dedicados al estudio religioso. Ven las yeshivas como fundamentales para la preservación del judaísmo, tan importantes para la defensa de Israel como el ejército.

La mayoría de los israelíes cree que los hombres ultraortodoxos deben prestar servicio militar, pero los partidos Haredi se han opuesto firmemente a los esfuerzos por revocar la exención del reclutamiento. El frágil gobierno de coalición de Netanyahu depende de dos partidos Haredi – United Torah Judaism y Shas – para gobernar. Ha estado tratando de impulsar una legislación a través del parlamento israelí, el Knesset, que consagre en la ley una exención del reclutamiento para los hombres Haredi.

La decisión se produce en un momento crítico para un país en guerra desde hace casi nueve meses y un primer ministro cuyo gobierno de extrema derecha perdió su fachada de solidaridad bélica este mes cuando Benny Gantz, un líder de la oposición, abandonó el gabinete de guerra de Netanyahu. Y aunque los jefes militares de Israel públicamente denuncian las escaseces de mano de obra, esta sentencia es poco probable que resulte en grandes números de hombres ultraortodoxos que se unan a las filas en cualquier momento pronto.

"La sentencia del Tribunal Supremo pone fin a 76 años de desigualdad e injusticia ilegales", dijo Eliad Shraga, presidente del Movimiento por un Gobierno de Calidad en Israel – el principal peticionario en el caso – en un comunicado. "No aceptaremos más la situación absurda en la que hay quienes dan a el estado, contribuyen y incluso arriesgan sus vidas, y hay quienes no hacen nada."

El partido de Netanyahu, Likud, dijo en un comunicado en respuesta a la sentencia que la legislación seguía siendo "la solución real al problema del reclutamiento", y "no una sentencia del Tribunal Supremo."

Aryeh Deri, líder del partido Shas, condenó la sentencia.

"Incluso aquí, en el estado judío, junto a nuestros queridos combatientes que se sacrifican contra los enemigos, seguiremos protegiendo a los que aprenden la Torá, que preserva nuestro poder especial y crea milagros en la batalla", dijo, según el sitio web de noticias Ynet. "Quien intentó desconectar al pueblo de Israel de la Torá en el pasado fracasó miserablemente."

Sin embargo, Moshe Roth, miembro de la Knesset del partido United Torah Judaism, minimizó la sentencia el martes. "No va a cambiar prácticamente nada", dijo Roth a futebolbets online. "Muchos lo ven como flexión de músculos."

Aunque las Fuerzas de Defensa de Israel (IDF) ahora están legalmente obligadas a reclutar a hombres ultraortodoxos, los líderes militares dicen que no están preparados para hacerlo en masa. Los hombres ultraortodoxos, que ya sirven en pequeños números en el ejército, tienen requisitos religiosos particulares y suelen servir en unidades especiales.

"Según los cálculos del ejército, se reclutaron 1.800 el año pasado", dijo Gilad Malach, director del programa Ultra-Orthodox in Israel en el Instituto de Democracia de Israel, después de la sentencia. "El ejército necesita hacer algún cambio para reclutarlos. Según el ejército, el próximo año el ejército puede recibir 4.800."

"Es la primera vez que el Tribunal Supremo dice que, inmediatamente, hay una legislación conectada con el reclutamiento de la sociedad ultraortodoxa, y es la ley de reclutamiento regular", agregó Malach. "Estamos en una situación políticamente muy, muy problemática para la coalición gobernante – para los Haredim, y para Netanyahu."

Aunque el Tribunal Supremo ha dictaminado ahora que el IDF debe reclutar a hombres ultraortodoxos, los líderes ultraortodoxos seguirán presionando por una legislación que les dé una exención legal.

"Estamos siendo prácticos cuando se trata de cualquiera de estos problemas, y dejar la coalición no cambia el hecho", dijo Roth.

La sentencia probablemente aumentará las tensiones dentro del gobierno de Netanyahu y entre sus líderes políticos y militares.

La guerra en Gaza ha generado una tensión significativa en las fuerzas militares de Israel y ha dado una urgencia a la cuestión de la reclutamiento que antes carecía después del ataque de Hamas del 7 de octubre. El ejército israelí ha convocado a grandes números de reservistas, pidiéndoles que presten turnos de servicio prolongados y retire a legiones de trabajadores de la economía israelí.

El ministro de Defensa Yoav Gallant ha criticado públicamente el intento de Netanyahu de exentar a los judíos ultraortodoxos. Y el jefe del Estado Mayor Herzl Halevi ha sido vocal sobre la necesidad de reclutar a hombres ultraortodoxos.

"Cada batallón que establecemos, un batallón ultraortodoxo, reduce la necesidad de la implementación de miles de reservistas gracias al servicio militar obligatorio de las personas", dijo anteriormente este mes. "Queremos expandir la base tanto como sea posible – de los que vienen a inscribirse, les digo que hay una oportunidad de cambio en la comunidad ultraortodoxa."

Esta no es la primera vez que el Tribunal Supremo anula la exención Haredi. En 1998, el tribunal le dijo al gobierno que permitir que los Haredim se exoneren del reclutamiento violaba los principios de igualdad de protección. En las décadas desde entonces, los gobiernos y los Knessets sucesivos han tratado de resolver el problema, solo para ser informados una y otra vez por el tribunal de que sus esfuerzos eran ilegales.

En una encuesta de febrero realizada por el Instituto de Democracia de Israel, el 64% de los encuestados israelíes y el 70% de los encuestados judíos israelíes dijeron que la exención Haredi "debería cambiarse". Los encuestadores hablaron con adultos israelíes – 600 en hebreo y 150 en árabe.
