Also Known As: Ads by Friv Launcher

What is Friv Launcher?

Friv Launcher is adware-type program that supposedly allows users to play various Flash games.

Some users may believe that this functionality is legitimate, however, Friv Launcher is classed as an unwanted program and adware. After infiltrating systems without users' consent, Friv Launcher generates intrusive online advertisements and continually gathers information relating to users' web browsing activity.

More about is Friv Launcher

Once infiltrated,

Friv Launcher gathers IP addresses, website URLs visited, pages viewed, search queries, and other similar browsing related information. This information might be personally identifiable - developers of Friv Launcher share it with third parties.

Personally

identifiable data can be misused and, therefore, the presence of an information-tracking app could lead to serious privacy issues or even identity theft.

In addition, Friv Launcher generates various intrusive online advertisements that usually conceal underlying content, thereby significantly diminishing the Internet browsing experience.

Some of these ads redirect to dubious websites containing malicious content - clicking them might cause further high-risk adware or malware infections. We strongly advise you to uninstall Friv Launcher adware immediately.

More

adware examples

There are hundreds of adware-type programs similar to Friv Launcher including, for example, Storm Alerts, Sale Planet, and Book Source.

All adware falsely claims to enhance the web browsing experience - this is merely to trick users to install, however, this software is useless for every day users. Adware-type apps are designed only to generate revenue for the developers by collecting private data, delivering intrusive advertisements, and causing unwanted browser redirects.

How did

Friv Launcher install on my computer?

Developers employ a deceptive software marketing method called 'bundling' (stealth installation of potentially unwanted programs with regular software/apps), since they are aware that many users skip the 'Custom/Advanced' download or installation settings.

They intentionally conceal bundled programs within this section, and by skipping it, users expose their systems to risk of infection.

Developers' revenue is dependent on the number of the number of apps distributed and, therefore, they do not properly disclose these installations.

How to avoid installation of unwanted applications?

To prevent this situation, be cautious when downloading and installing software. Closely observe each step using the 'Custom/Advanced' settings. In addition, all offers to download or install additional programs should be declined.
